- A. G.I. or National Service Life Insurance, if policy is in force at the time of the Veterans death.
- B. Lump sum burial benefit of $150.00 (through funeral director)
- C. Memorial plot and headstone.

9. Any Additional Health Insurance/Life Insurance/Disability Insurance You May Have:

10. Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (ACA):

Regardless of your personal views on this new law, if extenuating circumstances arise or dictate that you no longer have health insurance you should call the appropriate government agency for guidance.

THIS PART IS MAINLY FOR THE SURVIVING SPOUSE

AND CHILDREN

Annuities are payable to surviving widows and widowers, children and certain other dependents. Lump sum benefits are payable after the death of a railroad employee only if there are no qualified survivors of the employee immediately eligible for annuities. With the exception of a residual lump sum death benefit, eligibility for survivor benefits depends on whether or not the employee was "insured" under the Railroad Retirement Act at the time of death.

An employee is insured if he or she has at least 10 years of railroad service, or 5 years performed after 1995, and a "current connection" with the railroad industry as of the month of the annuity begins or the month of death, whichever occurs first.

If a deceased employee was not so insured, jurisdiction of any survivor benefits payable is transferred to the Social Security Administration and any survivor benefits are paid by that agency instead of the Board. Regardless of which agency has jurisdiction, the deceased employee's railroad retirement and social security credits will be combined for the purpose of benefit computation

TYPES OF SURVIVOR BENEFITS

Annuities are payable to widows, widowers, and unmarried children; in certain cases, benefits are also payable to parents, remarried widow(er)s, grandchildren and surviving divorced spouses.

WIDOWS' and WIDOWERS' ANNUITIES are payable at:

Age 60: age reductions are applied to annuities awarded before full retirement age. The eligibility age for unreduced annuities is gradually rising from age 65 to age 67, depending on the year of birth.

Ages 50-59 if the widow(er) is totally and permanently disabled and unable to work in any regular employment. The disability must have begun within 7 years after the employee's death or within 7 years after the termination of any annuity based on caring for a child of the deceased employee. A 5-month waiting period is required after the onset of disability before a disability annuity can begin.

Any age if the widow(er) is caring for an unmarried child of the deceased employee under age 18 or a disabled child of any age who became disabled before age 22. The widow(er) must have been married to the employee for at least 9 months prior to death, unless she or he was the natural parent of their child, the employee's death was accidental or while on active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces, the widow(er) was potentially entitled to certain railroad retirement or social security benefits in the month before the month of death, or the marriage was postponed due to State restrictions on divorce due to mental incompetence or similar incapacity.

SURVIVOR ANNUITIES may also be payable to a surviving divorced spouse, or remarried widow(er).

A surviving divorced spouse may qualify if she or he was married to the employee for at least 10 years, is unmarried or remarried under the conditions described in the next paragraph, and is age 60 or older (50 if disabled). A surviving divorced spouse who is unmarried can qualify at any age if caring for the employee's child and the child is under age 16 or disabled, in which case the 10-year marriage requirement does not apply.

The portion of a survivor annuity equivalent to a social security benefit may be paid to a widow(er) or surviving divorced spouse who remarries after age 60, or to a disabled widow(er) or disabled surviving divorced spouse who remarries after age 50; however, remarriage prior to age 60 (or age 50 if disabled) would not prevent eligibility if such remarriage ends. Such social security lever benefits may also be paid to a younger widow(er) or surviving divorced spouse caring for the employee's child who is under age 16 or disabled, if the remarriage is to a person receiving railroad retirement or social security benefits or the remarriage ends.

OTHER SURVIVOR ANNUITIES

An unmarried child under age 18.

An unmarried child age 18 in full-time attendance at an elementary or secondary school or in approved home schooling, until the student attains age 19 or the end of the school term in progress when the student attains age 19. In most cases where a student attains age 19 during the school term, benefits are limited to the 2 months following the month age 19 is attained.

An unmarried disabled child over age 18 if the child became totally and permanently disabled before age 22.

An unmarried dependent grandchild meeting any of the requirements described above for a child, if both the grandchild's parents are deceased or disabled.

A parent at age 60 who was dependent on the employee for at least half of the parent's support. If the employee was also survived by a widow(er), surviving divorced spouse or child who could ever qualify for an annuity, the parent's annuity is limited to the amount that social security would pay.

The widow(er) will have to check with the Railroad Retirement Board once a year to see if there have been any benefit changes.

There is a Lump Sum Death Benefit payable to you upon return of the RRB Claim Forms along with a Copy of the Death Certificate. The amount payable depends primarily on whether the deceased employee was credited with 10 years of service before January 1, 1975, in which case the average benefit payable is about $900. In all other cases where a lump sum is payable, the benefit is $255. It will take about 3 months to receive this money.

Do not forget to make a copy of all claim forms which you submit to life insurance companies Railroad Retirement Board – Social Security Administration.

Do not sign any forms or statements that you have not completely read and understood. Read the fine print.

Check all the titles on your cars, trailers, motor homes and house to make sure the word “OR” is used between you and your spouse’s name.

OTHER ITEMS TO CHECK:

Bank loans and credit cards to see if there is insurance that will pay off the balance owed.

Are your cars, motor homes, trailers paid off? If not, are the loans covered by disability insurance in the event you or your spouse is off work due to an injury? Are loans covered by Life Insurance in the event of your Spouse's death?

THE MOST IMPORTANT ITEM TO CHECK, ON A REGULAR BASIS, IS THAT THE BENEFICIARIES ON ALL INSURANCE POLICIES AND ACCOUNTS ARE CURRENT AND CORRECT

Attached you will find copies of "Parents Consent for Medical Care and Treatment for Children," "Directive to Physicians," and "Organ Donor Information."

THINGS TO BE DONE OR VERIFIED

- Make certain you have a Will and be sure it says what you want it to say. If you already have a Will you may want to revise it.
- Have you discussed with your spouse who would take care of your Children should something happen to both of you while on a trip?
- Discuss your choices of Guardian or Guardians with the Children, some states allow only one Guardian to be named.
- Make certain the Guardian/Guardians have accepted the Responsibility.
- Make certain the Guardian/Guardians do not have to be financially responsible for the children. Review your Life Insurance needs and Income requirements for the surviving family.
- Know the Survivorship provisions of your Retirement Plan.
- Does the "Breadwinner" have a policy that will Guarantee an Income in the event of a long-term eligibility?
- Does everyone know where all the Important Documents are kept?
- Does everyone know where the keys to the safe deposit box are kept?
- Does everyone know where the keys/combination to the home safe are kept?
- Does everyone have access to important online login information (email passwords, online banking, online accounts, etc.)?
- Discuss debts and their repayment.
- You may want to consider a Living Trust.

WHAT EVERY RAILROAD FAMILY SHOULD KNOW

Even with the latest innovations, railroading is still a hazardous occupation. All too frequently a family receives a phone call telling them of an accident resulting in the injury or death of their loved one who is a railroad employee.

If this unfortunate situation should arise in your family, your union knows that the family should have service and assistance available, which will insure that the family secures every benefit to which they are entitled. All too often a family forgets a traumatic experience such as this will have an impact on them for many years to come. Federal laws provide that railroad workers and their families are entitled to compensation for injury or death suffered on the job. These laws entitle survivors and dependent children to recover for the loss of support.

If, and when, a situation like this arises, the family is in a highly emotional state. In order to safeguard the rights of employees and their families, the following are points you should keep in mind:

1. Contact an officer of the Union. They will be more than happy to assist in setting up and appointment or consultation with one of the Union Designated Legal Counsels. They will advise you of your legal rights under FELA, the law congress passed to protect you. Consultation provided by designated legal counsel and the union is at no cost to an injured member or to his/her family.
2. No one should give any statement or sign any agreements or other documents, which the railroad representative may present to you unless such material has been first, reviewed by the counsel of your choice.
3. Do not discuss this matter with a representative of the railroad. Remember this is a highly emotional time and often things are said which at some later time are hard to overcome. An early misstatement can have serious long term consequences.
4. Keep in mind no one is automatically entitled to any compensation from the railroad by reason of the spouse's death or injury. This is where designated legal counsel comes in. Consultation is always free of charge.
5. In the event a claim must be progressed against the railroad or any company, designated legal counsel will charge an agreed to reasonable fee for handling.

Should any other assistance be needed insofar as handling your Insurance benefits, as well as for benefits from the union. Officers of the union and designated legal counsel will assist in filing out the claims. Keep in mind these people are on the family's side and are there to help in these trying times.

Attorneys who are chosen as Designated Legal Counsel have reputations for honesty and integrity and are specialists in handling of Railroad related matters and cases under the Federal Employers Liability Act. Always ask counsel if they are Designated for your Union.

FOR THE SPOUSES OF RAILROAD EMPLOYEES:

The men and women working on the railroad are continually exposed to hazardous conditions. Because railroading is a dangerous business, it is vitally important that husbands and wives know what to do in the event of an on the job injury. IT IS CRITICAL THAT SPOUSES HAVE THE PHONE NUMBERS OF THEIR LOCAL UNION REPRESENTATIVES ALONG WITH DESIGNATED LEGAL COUNSEL'S PHONE NUMBERS. Please print or request our tri-fold cards so you are prepared in the event of an injury.

Please see our listing of important questions below. Finding the answers to them as soon as possible will be of great benefit to you and your children in protecting your rights. In the months and years to come, there will be strong efforts by the railroads in our country to abolish the Federal Employers' Liability Act. The reason the railroad will be working so hard in Washington to abolish the Act is that they know that it is of great benefit to railroad workers who are injured or to the families of railroad workers who are killed. Elimination of this Act would save the railroads untold amounts of monies, but would work hardship on railroad workers and their families, by deleting hard-earned rights and remedies. Only by understanding the Federal Employers' Liability Act and pursuing the rights and remedies contained in the Act can railroad workers protect themselves.

What if my husband died and a claims agent for the railroad offers to settle and wants me to sign a release. Do I?

Before you do anything after a tragedy, you must be sure that you have fully recovered from the shock and grief the event will bring before you take any action. Frequently, a claims agent and some attorney's representatives will want you to make decisions which will affect the rest of your and your children's lives before you have had an opportunity to step back and look at what has happened. Until you are sure that you have your wits about you, you should not talk to the claims agent.

Can a member of my husband's union help?

Absolutely. Most railroad workers have insurance policies and other provisions in their union contract which will assist the spouse and children in the event of catastrophic injury or death. Your local Union officers can help you apply for these monies and work to protect your rights..

When should I see an attorney?

You should see an attorney who is experienced with the Federal Employers' Liability Act, the law which is designed to protect railroad workers when they are injured or killed on the job, as soon as you feel that you can make wise rational choices. It is important that you retain an attorney who is experienced with the Federal Employers Liability Act as the attorney will know where to go and how to preserve the evidence which will be necessary to protect your and your children's rights. It will benefit you and your children to retain an attorney as soon after the catastrophic event as possible, as the attorney knows that the danger in losing valuable and important evidence grows greater as time passes. It is important that the attorney you select has knowledge of how the railroad works and the duties assigned to railroad employees. Your spouse's union has approved and designated certain law firms as having the knowledge and experience necessary to protect your rights.

I have children and need money as soon as possible to pay for my house and living expenses. The claims agent offers me advances. Should I accept the advances and not go to a lawyer?

Frequently, claims agents will tell injured railroad workers or the spouses of deceased railroad workers that they would love to help them out, but can only do so if they have not hired an attorney and if they will give a recorded statement. THIS IS NOT TRUE. The railroad, if it wants to help out any employee who is injured or the family of an employee who has been killed. Furthermore, there is no requirement that an injured employee provide a statement other than an accident report. These are means by which the claims agent tries to get evidence for the railroad to defeat your claim. It is the claim agent's job to minimize the railroad's liability. The railroad will make an advance if it is a good business decision—just as when they furlough people. Although having money quickly from the claims agent can help in the short run, the potential of losing important facts and evidence in your case is great. The railroad advances money to minimize their liability and also allow evidence to be lost and witnesses' memories to fade. You and your families will need that evidence and those witnesses to protect your rights. Do not, for any reason, give a statement, either taped, oral or written, about the accident to the claims agent. Furthermore, never discuss family matters or problems with the railroad. If the claims agent approaches you about these subjects, contact an attorney.

I know I am entitled to a certain amount from the company in the event of death. If they pay, can I still sue?

The monies to which you are entitled are the result of insurance policies, the collective bargaining agreement or the Railroad Retirement Board. These monies are earned through employment and do not come from the railroad. This means that you may still collect those monies and sue the railroad. However, if you accept money directly from the railroad and you sign a release, it will prevent you from suing. It is important to understand the difference.

I have signed a release with the claims agent while under stress. Can I get out of this release?

The answer to this question depends on the facts involved in your signing the release. If it can be shown that you did not understand the circumstances surrounding the injury or death, did not understand the significance of the injuries (if there is no death), or signed because of false or concealed statements by the claims agents or doctors, a good attorney should be able to get you out of the release. This, however, is very difficult. Of course, the best procedure is to not sign in the first place until you have fully recovered your emotional and mental faculties and had an opportunity to consult with a lawyer.

My husband was in accident while away from home. I have to travel out of state to be with him at the hospital. Will the railroad pay for the cost of my going to the accident scene to be near my husband?

The railroad is not obligated to pay these costs. Sometimes the claims agent will offer to "put you up" and, in so doing, will try to control you and your claim. Again, this is a ploy to prevent early investigation of the accident scene and to procure necessary witness statements. The money which you are out of pocket can eventually become an element of damage in your lawsuit and can be recovered through trial. If you need money in the event your husband is involved in an accident away from home, first look to family and friends for support. If there are problems, contact an attorney.

What am I entitled to?

This is a difficult question and cannot be answered at the time of a catastrophe. Any claims agent or attorney who tells you what your case is worth or what he can get for you immediately after the time of the catastrophe is not giving you a straight answer. A case may only be fully evaluated after all of the facts and circumstances surrounding the event have been discovered, medical records have been evaluated, and the present value of future losses is ascertained.

Under the Federal Employers Liability Act, negligence must be proven. This means that there must be facts sufficient to support a claim that the railroad or one of its agents or employees did something wrong, or failed to do something that should have been done. Included in this area are unsafe tools, equipment and property as well as the failure to institute and oversee proper safety procedures. Then it must be shown that the act or omission played any part, even the smallest, in bringing about the injuries or death. Also, the actions of the injured or deceased railroad worker have to be evaluated to determine whether he or she was responsible in any way for the injury or death.

What do I do now?

Only after the questions are answered can a thorough evaluation of the value of the case be made.

There are special laws which apply if your spouse was injured or killed as a result of a defect of an engine or a defect in the train's safety appliances. These laws the Locomotive Inspection Act and Safety Appliance Act must be thoroughly evaluated. There are some things which you must know in order to make good decisions. As soon as possible, find out the answers to the questions listed below:

1. Where did the accident happen?
2. What time did the accident happen?
3. Who was with my husband at the time the accident happened?
4. Did anyone else see the accident?
5. What happened?

These are important questions and finding the answers to them as soon as possible will be of great benefit to you and your children in protecting your rights.

TO THE INJURED RAILROAD WORKER:

If you become injured at work, there several things that should be done after the injury.

- Remember- The FELA is fault based and the railroad will want to argue that this injury is your fault.
- Make mental and written notes of the location and/or equipment involved in the injury, and take photographs if possible.
- Have coworkers take notes of the accident scene, i.e. location, equipment involved, witnesses, and the area surrounding the accident scene. What work was being performed at the time of the injury? What repairs or cleanup was done after the accident?
- Immediately contact your Local Union Representative and the Hildebrand Law Firm.
- Limit speaking to any company official.
- Do not give any written or taped statements to any company official as you are not required to do so under any rule or law.
- Do not allow company officials in the examination room to talk with you, your family, or your doctor.
- You must fill out an accident report for the company, but not until you are mentally and physically able. It should not be done in the examination room, while under medication, or the stress of being injured. Wait until you can reflect on what happened and why it happened.
- Have your Local Union Representative or The Hildebrand Law Firm help you fill out the accident report when you have recovered enough to think clearly and can accurately answer all of the questions on the accident report.
- The Hildebrand Law Firm will protect the rights you have under the FELA. You are not covered under any state workers compensation.

WHISTLEBLOWER VIOLATIONS

Pursuant to 49 U.S.C. Section 20109, the railroad commits a whistleblower violation when it engages in any adverse action against a railroad worker because that worker performed a protected activity.

Common Protected Activities:

- Notifying the railroad of work-related injuries and medical conditions
- Reporting hazardous safety or security conditions
- Accurately reporting hours of service
- Filing or assisting with an OSHA Complaint
- The railroad cannot delay, deny, or interfere with your medical treatment

Common Adverse Actions :

- Discipline
- Firing
- Harassment
- Probation or adverse “points” assessments
- Retaliation
- Intimidation
- Threats
- Reduced pay, hours, or choice of jobs
- Blacklisting

Examples of Potential Violations:

- 1) Termination, discipline, or harassment for reporting an on-duty injury or hazardous safety condition
- 2) Delaying or denying an employee’s request for hospital or medical care
- 3) Railroad nurse or railroad doctor interfering with or delaying medical care
- 4) Intimidation/Harassment: Threatening investigation or discipline if an injury is reported

HOW TO PROTECT YOURSELF

1) Ask questions and get advice before and after reporting an injury

- Contact your union reps and experienced attorneys at Hildebrand McLeod & Nelson LLP

2) Explicitly request medical treatment

- Your maximum protection is when you request hospital/ER care immediately after an injury
- If you ask for the hospital, the railroad must promptly arrange transport to the nearest hospital
- With or without a request, the railroad still cannot delay, deny, or interfere with your treatment

3) Keep detailed notes

- Write down all key events, dates, times, witnesses, and conversations with railroad managers

4) Timely file a whistleblower complaint with OSHA

- Timing: You must file your complaint no later than 180 days after an adverse action
- Potential remedies: Punitive damages up to $250,000, back pay and other economic damages, emotional damages, reinstatement and clearing of personnel record, attorney fees, and other relief afforded by the law

OFF TRACK VEHICLE BENEFITS

HILDEBRAND, McLEOD & NELSON RECOMMENDS:

- Talk to your insurance agent.
 - Explain that your job requires you to drive and/or be a passenger in vehicles while at work. Ensure that you have adequate coverage because often the person at fault will have inadequate insurance coverage. If more than one person is injured in the accident, and the negligent party has inadequate insurance, you may get little or nothing.
- Make sure that you have a significant amount of coverage for both UNDERINSURED and UNINSURED claims.
- Avoid driving your own vehicle or company vehicles if at all possible. Of course, driving is a necessary part of some jobs and sometimes unavoidable.
- Most importantly, talk to your union representative and DLC to make sure you are protected.

OFF TRACK VEHICLE SUMMARY:

1. Who can claim these benefits:
 - A employee who is injured “riding in, boarding, or alighting from off-track vehicles authorized by the carrier” and are “deadheading or being transported at the carrier expense.”
2. The disability requirements for the benefits:
 - An employee who is immediately and continuously disabled for 30 days from the date of the accident.
 - Example: If John Doe goes back to work one day during the first 30 days after the accident, then he cannot get the benefits.
3. The duration of the benefits:
 - An injured employee can continue to receive off track benefits up to 156 weeks, so long as he remains disabled, even after RRB benefits have stopped. If RRB benefits stop, the off track benefits should be recalculated.
4. The value of the benefits:
 - The employee is entitled to 80% of his wages with a set maximum that varies by union contract, presently a maximum of $1,000 per week. Example: John Doe earns $1,500 per week. 80% of $1,500 is $1,200, but he will only get $1,000 per week because of the set maximum.
 - If the employee is also collecting RRB benefits, those will be deducted from the amount paid by the off track policy. Example: John Doe would get $1,000 from the off track policy. John Doe gets $350 a week in RRB. So he can only get $650 per week in off track benefits.
 - The employee is also entitled to a lump sum benefit based on the severity of the injury (for example, death, loss of limbs, loss of vision, etc.). Different unions have negotiated different amounts.
5. The contact person for benefits:

The employee should make the claim through the carrier’s claims agent.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS:

1. Will I be covered by the FELA?
 - Maybe. The FELA is a fault-based compensation system. If there is no carrier fault, there is no FELA coverage.
2. Will my own car insurance policy cover me in an accident?
 - Maybe. You need to have adequate uninsured/underinsured motorist insurance (“UIM”) coverage on your policy. This will cover you when there is an accident which is the fault of another (non-contract) vehicle whose driver does not have insurance (or has inadequate insurance).
3. Will my homeowner’s policy cover me in an accident?
 - Maybe. You should review the terms of the policy and contact your agent to explain it, as some homeowner’s policies cover these accidents, sometimes these accidents are excluded. You must confirm any representation made by your agent in writing.
4. What if I’m driving my own vehicle and I’m in an accident?
 - If you are at fault, the other driver could sue you and the railroad. The railroad can look towards your insurance as the primary source to cover the damages.
 - If the other driver is at fault, the other driver and/or his insurer is responsible. If the other driver lacks adequate insurance, UIM could cover the damages.
5. What if I’m driving a company vehicle and I’m in an accident?
 - If you are at fault, the railroad will be responsible for injuries to others and has an obligation to defend you. Your personal insurance will likely also be involved. If you are injured, your damages may be lessened by the extent that you were at fault.
 - If the other driver is at fault, the other driver and/or his insurer is responsible. If the other driver lacks adequate insurance, UIM could cover the damages.
6. If I’m in an accident on duty driving a company vehicle or my own vehicle, will my insurance premiums rise?
 - Probably yes. It is up to the insurance company, but often accidents – sometimes no matter who is at fault – will trigger an increase in premiums.
7. Do I have to pay back the money?
 - Yes. You need to repay the off track benefits in the event you recover against the railroad or a third party bad driver. This is called a “lien.”
8. What if I’m commuting to or from work?
 - You are not covered while commuting.

The Importance of Life and Disability Insurance

Life Insurance:

No amount of money can ever replace the loss of a loved one, which is why it is essential to have a plan to provide for you, your family and loved ones in the event the unforeseen happens. Life insurance can ensure financial security to those who mean the most to you, such as your spouse, children and dependent parents. A carefully executed life insurance policy can help prepare for life's uncertainties and give peace of mind knowing that the future of those who rely on you is secure.

Disability Income Insurance:

Most people pay very little attention to how they might handle their family's living expenses should their income suddenly cease because of an unexpected illness or injury. Perhaps this is because most people feel an injury or illness will never happen to them. Disability income insurance protects your most valuable asset; your ability to earn an income. In closing, if you are unfortunately injured while working on the railroad, having disability insurance may be very important to you with respect to not being controlled by a claim agent, (as we have all seen in the past with no personal income coming in a claim agent will seek to gain control of all aspects of your on-duty injury).

Life and Disability insurance are not simple products. It's wise to talk to an expert who can walk you through the pros and cons of available plans and help choose coverage that works best for your individual situation, now and in the future. Most organizations / union representatives can help you with an expert referral.
